Lyndsaé' Peele, MBA, PMEC™ is a results-driven finance coach, international speaker, and overall black wealth advocate. She received her BA in Broadcast Journalism from Howard University, her MBA from the University of Maryland Global Campus, and certification in Women's Entrepreneurship at Cornell University.

She is the CEO of the award-winning financial services company, Kingdom Vision Enterprises, LLC. The organization houses two financial subsidiaries, Kingdom Vision Consulting & The R.E.A.L. Deal Radio Show. Kingdom Vision has been honored as the SBA's 2022 Maryland Financial Services Champion of the Year. Lyndsaé combined her years of banking experience and her passion for economic development, to create a socially conscious organization specializing in both personal and business finance in the form of an educational radio talk show and strategic consulting firm.

Lyndsaé is also the Director of Community Engagement of O'Hara Development Partners, a community development company that was created to develop healthy communities through the rehabilitation of decayed properties for residential and commercial use. She leads the firm's partnership outreach with local and city programs providing educational and other sustainability services to support economic growth such as our housing counseling program, monthly educational opportunities, and the development of a new community park.

Lyndsaé is personally on a mission to strengthen business ownership and increase homeownership in marginalized communities.

“

As a second generation entrepreneur, I value the importance of creating financial foundations for you and your village. Every decision that you make today can either promote or prevent the necessary building blocks to creating generational wealth.
